

Elk Population Status 2011

<http://fishandgame.idaho.gov/cms/hunt/elk/>

Elk populations are constantly changing in response to weather, predation, land management, fire events and development. To maintain elk hunting experiences desired by sportsmen, the Idaho Department of Fish and Game must manage herd sizes within desired ranges, provide high quality hunting opportunities, maintain availability of general hunts, and minimize depredations on agricultural lands, by adjusting hunting seasons and hunter numbers. Fish and Game also works closely with land owners and managers to ensure high quality elk habitat is found throughout the state.

Currently, elk herds meet or exceed management objectives in 21 of 29 elk management zones, and provide hunting opportunities ranging from trophy bulls to extra cow hunting opportunities to meet objectives. In the remaining eight zones, Fish and Game is working hard to improve elk survival to allow elk herds to meet objectives, including cutting back on some hunts and implementing programs to reduce predation.

Changing conditions and management challenges are part of the landscape, but with responsive management and more than 100,000 elk, Idaho continues to provide a variety of elk hunting opportunities desired by sportsmen.

2011 Elk Hunting Seasons

Elk hunting is managed in 29 elk zones. In addition, Fish and Game has established a 2-tag system to offer elk hunters the most general season choices. Hunters may select 1 zone and choose either an "A tag" or a "B tag" in most elk zones.

In general, A tags provide more opportunity for muzzleloader and archery hunters, and B tags provide more opportunity for centerfire rifle hunters.

Controlled hunts, allocated by random drawing, also are available in most of the state.

Any person who receives a controlled hunt tag for elk is prohibited from hunting in any other elk hunt, except for depredation hunts, extra antlerless elk hunts or by buying a leftover nonresident elk tag, if available.

Note: Residents or nonresidents may buy 1 unsold nonresident general season deer and elk tag at the nonresident price, starting August 28, to be used as a second tag.

Antlered elk: Only elk with at least 1 antler longer than 6 inches may be taken in any season which is open for antlered elk only. In antlered seasons, including spike-only, antlers must accompany the carcass while in transit.

Antlerless elk: Only elk without antlers or with antlers shorter than 6 inches may be taken in any season which is open for antlerless elk only.

Spike elk: Only elk with no branching on either antler and at least 1 antler longer than 6 inches may be taken in any season which is open for spike elk only. A branch is an antler projection at least 1 inch long and longer than the width of the projection.

Brow-tined elk: Only elk having at least 1 antler with a visible point on the lower half of the main beam which is 4 inches or greater in length may be taken in any season open for brow-tined elk only.

Archery & Muzzleloader Permits

Any person hunting in an archery-only season must have their license with archery permit validation. In a muzzleloader-only season, hunters must have a muzzleloader permit validation - including controlled hunts.

Nonresident Elk Tag

Nonresident elk tags, excluding nonresident junior mentored elk tags, are valid to take a black bear or mountain lion instead of an elk, if a season is open for that species, where and when the elk tag is valid, and if there is an open elk season in that same unit. See page 77.

Caution - Archers: "Any weapon" antlerless elk hunts will be open on or within 1 mile of private fields on which cultivated crops are currently growing, in all or parts of the following zones: Palouse, Weiser, Lemhi, Beaverhead, Pioneer, and Smoky Mountain. Additionally, an any-weapon controlled hunt occurs from August 6 - September 15 in a portion of Unit 48 (see Hunt No. 2100, page 43). Please use appropriate caution.
